Preface

As assumed, education is not an injunction, but an operational and prevalent tool for holistic development of an individual as well as for social transformation, the present book discusses the need of education for the vulnerable sections of India, emerging trends and their issues .The book fundamentally traces on issues related to the education of Women, Scheduled Castes (SC), Scheduled Tribes (ST), Children, Disabled, Poor migrants, and few tribes of India. Being vulnerable is one of the most important issues that must be addressed by all the sections of the society. Since vulnerability makes an individual low in their self-esteem, confidence and affects psychological well-being hence if the society, parents and teachers treat them with compassion, the vulnerable groups can become capable of uplifting themselves and of living a normal, healthy and peaceful life with dignity.

Vulnerability has manifold magnitudes that has a context where a person has a possibility for developing physical and psychological health problems because of inadequate Social ,economic, psychological, family, cognitive or physical support system and hence this book intends to empower the learners and the educators to become confident and conversant to serve this concern and to enrich themselves about the need of various programmes, policies and schemes launched by the government for educational development of different vulnerable groups. The book also highlights the constitutional provisions for the empowerment of vulnerable groups. Inclusive education is therefore a prerequisite for inclusive societies, and inclusive societies and non-discrimination are also the necessity to bring equality among the citizens of country.

The suggestions for improvement of further volumes are humbly invited.

Acknowledgement

I bow my head with great reverence to him who is Omni present and the cause behind every effort.

This book is a product of the firm support, consistent engagement, motivation, love and constant enrichment of significant people in my life. I have gathered plentiful debts over a period of time and although these debts cannot be reimbursed, yet it is my great privilege to thank them.

I express my sincere thanks to all the authors for contributing their ideas, research work and recommendations in the form of chapter. Their timely and adequate response has made it possible.

Words fail me at this juncture while expressing my profound sense of reverence and affection to Mahila Vidyalaya Degree College, Lucknow and my Principal Mrs. Nisha Gupta for her constructive ideas, countless suggestions, encouragement and constantly inspiring guidance throughout the entire work which helped me to shed away my inhibitions in the path of success. I extend my thanks to my collegues whose continuous inspiration, moral encouragement and boundless love, I have reached to this position.

Too tiny is the gratitude and too great is the gift of love and affection bestowed on me by my parents Mr. Parmanand Chaudhary and Mrs. Renu, for her constant faith and trust in me. Their constant support and encouragement has made my dream come true in the form of this book

This venture would have been incomplete without the diligent effort of my husband Mr. Mrinal Shankar and my little heart Liza for the immaculate love, constant inspiration, unparallel encouragement and unimpeachable support to accomplish this task.

I am thankful to Akhand Publishing House, New Delhi for bringing out this book in record time.

This book would have been incomplete without the collaborative efforts of all of you.
